WELCOME ADRESSES

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

More than 2000 registrations from participants all over the world had been received by the organisers of the X European Congress of Psychology in Prague already several months before the Congress. There is good reason to believe that we will witness a successful and lively event, scientifically, professionally and socially.

On behalf of the European Federation of Psychologists' Associations EFPA, I am glad to welcome you to the tenth European Congress of Psychology in Prague in July 2007.

EFPA was founded in 1981 to promote co-operation within European psychology and to increase the influence of psychologists in Europe. Today, EFPA consists of the psychological associations of 32 European countries, with about 200,000 psychologists as individual members.

The Congress is co-sponsored by the world psychology organisations IAAP (the International Association of Applied Psychology) and IUPsyS (the International Union of Psychological Science).

The success and credibility of psychology as a profession relies greatly on the close link between scientific research and practical application. In addition to the scientific programme, numerous professional meetings and symposia will be held during the Congress. After the Congress EFPA will hold its General Assembly – and most likely adopt the psychological associations of yet another two European countries to the EFPA family.

Our Czech colleagues are doing their best to arrange an outstanding event in terms of the programme, the setting, and the facilities available. We are looking forward to seeing psychologists from all over Europe – as well as from other parts of the world – in Prague in July 3-6, 2007.

*Tuomo Tikkanen
President, EFPA*

Ladies and Gentlemen, Dear Friends,

Allow me to welcome you in one of the most beautiful cities of Europe and extend my best wishes of success towards the deliberations of the Xth European Congress of Psychology. the importance of psychology and its disciplines has been steadily growing along with the development of human society and integration of the world, so that it has now acquired, literally, a global significance.

As psychiatrist, politician and mayor, I am well aware of how the outcome of any undertaking depends on the selection of collaborators, and, subsequently, on interpersonal relations and a favourable psychological atmosphere, felt in each team. Psychology, as interdisciplinary branch of science, is of great interest to me. As politician, I follow the development of political psychology; as mayor, all matters concerning the municipality from governing the city to particular social and psychological problems; and as psychiatrist, I cooperated at solving problems of drug addiction.

I should like to express my sincere belief that you will gather not only valuable new information but also pleasant experience and memories of our city that has been awarded the honor to host your biennial Congress.

*Pavel Bem
Mayor of Prague*

WELCOME ADRESSES

Dear colleagues and friends,

It is my honour to invite you to spend several days in July, 2007 in Prague at the Xth European Congress of Psychology. Congresses, in general, are predictable with their programme and structure, further it is also possible to predict, and who will seek them out. Yet, such an event is something unique, either by its context or encounters and events, which take place. Thus, Congress can be an inspiration or can at least stimulate reflecting over what is the topic of our interest – the knowledge and help to people.

The psychological network of knowledge pertaining to individuals can appear fragmented. Thus, the Prague Congress aims to show how connected the different fields of our knowledge are and how important it is to realize this. Congress is a forum, where it is possible to show how varied routes we take in order to understand ourselves and people around us. It is a place of tolerance and plurality, and also of critical reflection of our work – research and practice. the congress offers us the opportunity to meet during symposia, in workshops, at posters and during oral sessions. Our awareness of historical continuity of European psychology will be furthered by special historical presentation and exhibitions.

In several sections we will hear other languages than the official English, which can be understood as strengthening of the multi-vocality of our meeting. Keynote speakers, outstanding scientists from all over the world, have brought topics that will attract your attention; moreover you can find what is behind the thoughts, which you know from the publications. We also cannot overlook the inspiring voice of young generation, which already forms the future face of European psychology. the importance of this “young dimension” is heightened by the Comenius Young European Psychologist Award, which will be presented during the Congress.

I would like to thank the members of the Scientific committee for their work during the preparation of the Congress, to the National and International Advisory boards for careful evaluation of the abstracts, and to all Departments of Psychology of Universities in Czech Republic for their support, which is visible by the active participation of Czech psychologists.

I am convinced that the genius loci of Prague in union with the concentration of intellect will keep your mind open during the entire Congress.

*Ivo Cermak,
Chair of Scientific committee*

Dear colleagues, dear friends,

On behalf of the Union of Psychologists' Associations of the Czech Republic (UPA) and the Organizing Committee of ECP 2007, I am glad to welcome you in the Czech Republic and in its capital city, Prague.

When UPA was admitted for member of the European Federation of Psychologists' Associations (EFPA) as a representative of psychologists from the Czech Republic, it promised not to be a passive member of EFPA only, but – with regard to the historical tradition of psychology on the territory of the Czech Republic – to engage actively in the activities of the European psychologists. That is why psychologists from the Czech Republic are represented and actively operate in practically all Standing Committees, Task Forces, and Working Groups of EFPA.

In order to enable a direct exchange of information among psychologists from the Czech Republic and Europe as well as from other parts of the world, we organized in 2001, in cooperation with the European Association of Work and Organizational Psychology (EAWOP), the European Congress of Psychology of Work and Organization. Subsequently, in the year 2005, we realized an International Psychological Congress on Economic Psychology in cooperation with the International Association for Research in Economic Psychology (IAREP).

Apart from the new features mentioned by Professor Cermak (i.e., language sections, special exhibition “History of Psychology”, and “Comenius European Young Psychologist Award”), the UPA wants to enrich the ECP 2007 by the latest information and communication technologies used in the work of psychologists. For that, we prepared special video-section (for presenting diagnostic as well as intervention and educational activities) and we expect the contribution from some users of psychological services in business activity area as well.

We would like to thank for the auspices over the Xth European Congress of Psychology that was kindly accepted by Vaclav Klaus, president of the Czech Republic, as well as for the partnership and auspices of the capital Prague accepted by Lord Mayor of Prague, Pavel Bém. We also thank to all of our partners and – last but not least – to EC EFPA and all the national associations of EFPA for supporting the Xth ECP in Prague.

*Miloslav Solc
and Chair of Organizing Committee ECP 2007*

About EFPA and EFPA Congresses

EFPA is the leading Federation of National Psychologists' Associations in Europe. It provides a forum for European co-operation in a wide range of fields of academic training, psychology practice and research. There are 32 member associations of EFPA representing 200 000 individual members.

The member organizations of EFPA are concerned with promoting and improving psychology as a profession and as a discipline, particularly, though not exclusively, in applied settings and with emphasis on the training and research associated with such practice.

The psychologists in the member associations include practitioners as well as academic and research psychologists. the Federation has as one of its goals the integration of practice and research and the promotion of integrated discipline of psychology.

The biennial European Congress of Psychology is organized under the auspices of EFPA. the First European Congress was held in Amsterdam in 1989, the Second in Budapest in 1991, the Third in Tampere in 1993, the Fourth in Athens in 1995, the Fifth in Dublin in 1997, the Sixth in Rome in 1999, the Seventh in London in 2001, the Eighth in Vienna in 2003, the Ninth in Granada in 2005, and the Tenth is held in Prague in 2007. the Federation holds its General Assembly in conjunction with these meetings.

Information about Prague

The Czech Republic was established on 1st of January 1993, after peaceful division of former Czechoslovakia, which was previously established in 1918. Since the 1st of May 2004, the Czech Republic is a member of European Union.

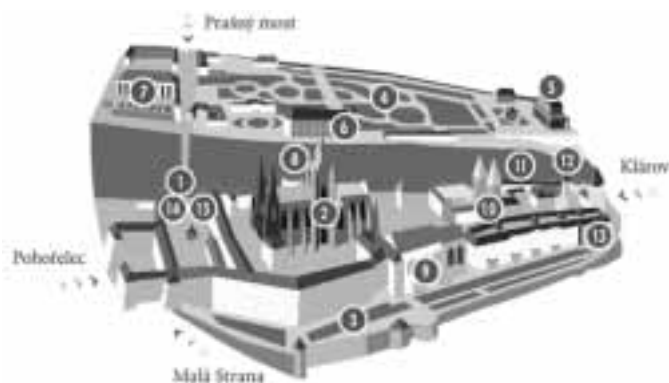

Prague is the Capital city of the Czech state from its formation since the 9th century. This location has been populated since the Stone Age due to its strategic position and mild climate. the heritage of the Celts lies in the name of the country – Bohemia, as recorded by the Roman geographer Ptolemy. the rivers Moldau (Vltava) and Elbe (Labe) have also been named by the Celts. the Celts were then replaced by the Germanic tribes and after them, in the 5th century, the Slavic tribes arrived. Among them were the Czechs, who built a state and its capital Prague.

Prague enchants of all its visitors and for many people Prague is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. the city has preserved its uniqueness, which has developed during the centuries. the monuments of the Romanesque, Gothic, Renaissance and Baroque style, hundreds of spires, palaces, town houses, and fortification belong to the jewels of the European civilization (UNESCO List of World Cultural Values). the magnificent panorama of Charles Bridge, St. Nicholas Church and Prague Castle belong to the gems of the Prague experience. Further, Prague is also valued for its Art Nouveau and Cubism.

Prague, the heart of Europe, has been always the intersection of cultural influences. Prague has these influences absorbed and at the same radiated and still radiates inspiration outward.

No. 4 Royal Garden

No. 6 Ball Game Hall

Farewell party information

The Farewell party takes place in the Prague castle. In order to get there from the Congress centre take metro to the station Museum, there change to the line A and go to the station Malostranska, there take a tram 22 or 23. Leave the tram at the station "Prazsky Hrad".

Ball Game Hall

In the years 1567 to 1569 the so-called Large Ball Game Hall originated on the southern side of the Royal Garden, immediately above the slope of Deer Moat. This Renaissance, richly decorated building has a dramatic history. until the 17th century it served successively for ball games and as a riding school and a stable. During the reign of the Emperor Joseph II it was used as a military storehouse. In the 20th century it was damaged by static defects and gunfire. It was burned to such an extent that only the peripheral walls remained of it. In 1952 its reconstruction was completed under the supervision of P. Janak, but the Ball Game Hall was concealed in the closed Royal Garden. It was made accessible to the public after 1989 and is now used mainly for exhibitions of creative art, concerts and important social events.

Royal Garden

Royal Garden was laid out in 1534 on the orders of the Habsburg Ferdinand I. From the owners he gradually bought old vineyards beyond the valley of the Brusnice stream and had a Renaissance garden laid out here, which later became famous for its rare botanical specimens and the exotic plants gained from distant countries. From the very beginning there were situated a number of buildings serving the entertainment of the nobility. the Ball Game Hall, the Royal Summer House, and the Lion Court. Currently the garden follows the tradition of an "English-style" park created in the mid 19th century, but it also contains elements of Renaissance character (giardinetto near the Royal Summer House) as well as Baroque elements (ornamental flower beds). It can be approached via two entrances, the main (western) gate from the street U Prasneho mostu (By the Powder Bridge) and the east gate near the Royal Summer House. the northern gate from the street Marianske hradby (Marian Ramparts) is only open occasionally.

MAIN THEME OF THE CONGRESS

Main topics of scientific programme are viewed from three dimensions, the goals of these dimensions being. state of knowledge, “white places” and services for society. These dimensions are as follows.

- + topics of psychological disciplines and relevant associations
- + main topics and specific problems of society
- + specific society sectors topics

First Dimension

The Comenius International Scientific Committee has the pleasure to announce their decision on the Comenius Award 2007.

The prize, this year for the first time, will be awarded to

Professor David De Cremer

from Belgium, currently at Tilburg University, during Gala Evening of the Xth European Congress of Psychology on Tuesday July 3, 2007 in Prague (Czech Republic).

The Comenius Award was given to EFPA by the Union of Psychologists' Associations of the Czech Republic to be awarded to a young psychologist from Europe who has made original contribution to the psychology as a science and profession.

The criteria for the award were.

1. Originality/novelty of her/his contribution to the psychology as a science and/or a profession.
2. The age limit is 35.
3. Supported by a list of publications and presentations at national and international conferences

The Comenius Scientific Committee has reviewed the materials of all applicants; each member gave three nominations in order. Professor David De Cremer has received most nominations.

The Committee thanks all member associations for their nominations.

For the Comenius Scientific Committee

*Prof. PhDr. Ivo Cermak, CSc.
Chairman of the Scientific Committee*

The Motive of Comenius Award was created by Iva Stetovska.

The author of the Comenius award design is Richard Sasek who graduated from the Secondary Technical School with specialisation on Glass technology and design in Zelezny Brod. Since 1993, he works at Ruckl Crystal, a.s., Nizbor, Czech republic where he specializes at the design of awards and state gifts.

Justification of choosing a name of Comenius for the European Young Psychologist Award

Comenius European Young Psychologist Award will be conferred for the first time at the Xth European Congress of Psychology in June 2007 in Prague. Onwards, this prestigious recognition will be a permanent component of every European Congress of Psychology in the future.

1. Comenius: his life and work

Jan Amos Komenský – Comenius (1592–1670) was a Czech educator and teacher, theologian, philosopher, social and religious thinker and writer, diplomat, priest and the bishop of the Unity of Brethren, a political and religious refugee. Comenius was a determined advocate of universal education and he became known as the teacher of the nations.

He was born in Moravia, today's Czech Republic, received education from prestigious protestant schools and universities, including Herborn and Heidelberg, and back in his home country devoted himself to professional work, research and writing. The scope of his knowledge and scholarly interest was exceptionally impressive. Comenius was author of a large number of works, in which he connected the domestic reformation traditions with European philosophical thinking and also addressed many practical issues related to education and present political problems (Labyrinth of the World and the Paradise of the Heart, Didactica Magna, Prodromus Pansophiae, Janua Linguarum Reserata, Orbis Pictus, De Rerum Humanorum Emendatione Consultatio Catholica, Schola Ludus, Informatorium školy materské, Theatrum Universitatis Rerum and other).

The strict re-catholisation made him one of the leaders of the protestant exile from the Czech lands during the tragic period of the 30-Year War. Comenius took refuge in Poland, Sweden, England and Netherlands. He continued his work in the field of philosophy and educational reforms and as well respected thinker he was engaged in the diplomatic arena in the last period of the 30-Year War. In the last years of his life Comenius lived in Amsterdam, Netherlands, where he died in 1670.

2. Comenius and psychology

Comenius was one of the first Europeans who contributed substantially to the knowledge of psychological aspects of learning and personality.

Comenius anticipated our modern approaches of psychology and pedagogy. He understood learning as a large process that included besides knowledge and skills, also life experiences and formation of personality. Comenius also paid detailed attention to memory and the cognitive processes in learning. He stressed that reason, understanding and thinking, control and self-control play a major role in the learning process.

Comenius emphasized the importance of good physical and psychological condition of students and analyzed in detail the process of attention and its functioning. As one of the first authors, he described how the emotions influence the learning process, how important is the proper motivation and what causes the lack of motivation. He put emphasis on active forms of learning in school and the role of homework.

One of the most fundamental principles, as seen by Comenius, was harmonious and natural development of the student. He understood the learning as a natural component of development and in this respect; he approached very closely the psychology of 20th Century.

Comenius contributed profoundly to the studies of personality, even though he used the vocabulary of 17th Century and thus spoke of soul or of a man. Here again, he stressed such qualities as harmony and integrity. According to the historians of psychology (Cap, 1992), Comenius was a predecessor of hierarchical models of personality as taught by contemporary psychology. His understanding of a man included both societal and biological aspect, similarly to present concepts of unity of societal and biological phenomenon.

We can find even more of significant connections in the area of personality with our modern discipline. Just to name some of them. The natural motives listed by Comenius are very close to the contemporary category of needs, such as need to be active, need to learn, esthetical and moral needs etc. the lack of motivation of some children is caused, according to Comenius, by negative influences of environment and education.

Comenius was convinced that every child has to be highly valued and merits an appreciation and respect. Somatic and mental problems are according to him, the result of a bad treatment and bad influence of educators. A human being is by his/her nature inclined to be good and has natural tendency to learn. When speaking about education of children, Comenius stressed the future of a child, its goals and perspectives – these views are very close to the concepts of many recent psychologists of 20th Century, such as S. L. Rubinstein, V. E. Frankl, and J. Cap (Cap, 1992).

The formation of the personality and its determination is, according to Comenius, a complex process that includes interaction of many internal and external factors, among which the dominant role has the education, good and bad examples of the society, and influences that are or are not adequate to the internal conditions of a child and to its actual development. The education should start from the early childhood. For Comenius, the interaction of a child with other children of the same age was very important. The same importance has the relationship between the children and adults – parents, teachers, and educators. Comenius always advocated that the children have to be treated by their parents with love, respect, and trust, but at the same time attention has to be paid to the discipline and control of their work and duties.

Comparison of ideas expressed in 17th Century by Comenius shows a remarkable proximity with the present concepts, theories on learning and personality in the field of educational psychology. According to the historians of psychology, Comenius could be considered a predecessor of humanistic psychology. Work of Comenius documents the long humanistic traditions of European intellectual history and the long history of efforts for a better education and a better life of people.

3. Additional remarks and context of the award

The First European Congress of Psychology was held in Amsterdam in 1989. The Tenth European Congress will be held in Prague in 2007. This is where Comenius European Young Psychologist Award will be awarded for the first time.

Comenius gravesite in Naarden has been a traditional place of commemorative visits of many Czechs.

Comenius' work belongs to the greatest contributions of Czechs to the European and world cultural and intellectual heritage.

HISTORY OF PSYCHOLOGY EXHIBITION

Particular presentations from majority of the EFPA national psychologists' associations, and that through posters and concrete material objects form the basis of the "History of Psychology" exhibition. The main theme of the exhibition is: "The contribution of our national psychology to the European and world psychology". Apart from the posters, an exhibition of instruments, devices, photos, books, journals, videos and films, etc. representing the history of psychology in Europe was prepared. The organizers are happy to be able to present the evidence concerning the history and development of psychology as science since its early beginnings in particular European countries (e.g. Belgium, Croatia, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, United Kingdom). Except of the EFPA national psychologists' associations there are the contributions of EFPA itself, EFPSA (European Federation of Psychology Students Association) and psychological societies and associations of the organizing country.

These are represented by the Union of Psychological Associations of the Czech Republic (UPA) and some of its members: the Traffic and Transport Psychologists Association, the Marital and Family Counselling Association, the Association of Workers in Educational and Psychological School Counselling, the Sports Psychologists Association, the Market Psychologists Association, the Military Psychologists, the Czech Work and Organisational Psychologists Associations, and the Czech-Moravian Psychological Society (CMPS), which is celebrating 80 years of its existence. These psychological associations present their history and their contemporary activities namely on posters.

The Departments of Psychology of Charles University in Prague and Masaryk University in Brno who displayed a wide range of historical psychological instruments from their unique collections.

The exhibition points to some particular applications of psychology in the societal practice in a very broad sense contributing to the congress theme "Mapping of Psychological Knowledge for Society".

rates available

Standard: UK £144 – ROW $216

Subsidised: UK £50 – ROW $75

"I have been a member of IAAP for many years, and have long valued the Association. It's taught me about different ways to see psychology, and has brought me into contact with many interesting people. Membership is recommended!"

Peter Warr, Professor, Institute of Work Psychology, and former Director, MRC/ESRC Social and Applied Psychology Unit, University of Sheffield

IAAP membership will link you to a worldwide network of like-minded colleagues with opportunities to develop close cooperation and exchanges in research, teaching and the practice of applied psychology.

Membership is excellent value for money and offers you many benefits including:

- ▶ An annual subscription to Applied Psychology: An International Review
- ▶ The IAAP Newsletter
- ▶ Entitlement to reduced registration fees at the IAAP International Congress
- ▶ Reduced subscription rates and discounts on many books and journals

PUBLISHED ON BEHALF OF THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY

Editor: Robert Wood

Co-Editor: Sabine Sonnentag

Applied Psychology: An International Review is the official journal of the International Association of Applied Psychology (IAAP). It is a forum for the scholarly exchange of applied psychology research findings. It has multinational contributors and covers a diversified range of the most important applied psychology fields.

The IAAP and the Applied Psychology journal provide forums for the cross-fertilisation of research questions, theories and methods from different areas of applied psychology in addition to the benefits of international exchanges.

For further information about the Journal, and about joining the IAAP, please visit the Blackwell Publishing booth at ECP, or the Journal website at:
